

'Green teen' essay contest

The nonprofit Polar Bears International (PBI) and Gault, a Westport-based energy company, are sponsoring the Leadership Camp green teen competition.

Leadership Camp is an essay competition in which the winning 2009-10 Fairfield County high school junior will travel to Manitoba, Canada, alongside some of the world's leading scientists, educators and wildlife photographers, to explore the polar bear's sub-Arctic habitat.

The winning student will join more than 30 students from around the world at Polar Bears International's Leadership Camp this October, returning home with a mission to educate school children about the plight of the polar bear. Students may enter the competition at gault-pbi.com.

The deadline for contest entries is Monday, June 15, at 4:30 p.m.
